

Waterwise Landscape Plant Guide for the Paso Robles Area

With our limited water resources and hot dry summers, the landscape of choice on the Central Coast consists of California natives and plants from the world's Mediterranean climate regions. Using waterwise plants, you can enjoy a beautiful and colorful yard that saves you money and maintenance time, and that goes easy on our natural resources. Converting 1,000 square feet of lawn to drought-tolerant plants on drip irrigation can save 20,000 gallons of water per year.
